Golden retriever was a golden retriever. Not just any golden retriever, but the Golden retriever. Her fur was the colour of sunshine, so fluffy it looked like a cloud, and her big blue eyes sparkled like the summer sky. She loved playing in the yard with her best friend, Lylah, who had brown hair and blue eyes that always seemed to be full of laughter.

One sunny afternoon, Golden retriever and Lylah were playing fetch near the garden. Lylah threw the ball, and it bounced... right into the sprinkler! Before Golden retriever could stop herself, she bounded through the water to grab the ball.

Suddenly, she stopped. Her beautiful, fluffy golden fur was SOAKED!
"EEEEEEEEEEEEEEK! " Golden retriever screamed, shaking her head and sending droplets of water flying everywhere.

She hated being wet! Lylah giggled, then quickly ran inside. She came back with a bright pink blow dryer. "Don't worry, Golden retriever!"

"She said. "I'll make you all fluffy again. "

Lylah gently blew warm air through Golden retriever's fur, fluffing it up until it was even more magnificent than before. Golden retriever sighed contentedly, leaning into Lylah on the couch.
